Wine Pick of the Week, Neal McLennan, Western Living Magazine • Jan. 2012

"This Canadian wine borrows a French process to score a perfect balance between new world freshness and old world technique. Cassoulet was born to go with a hearty Rhone red, and BC's Township 7 does one of the best interpretations of a French Cote-Rotie with their Syrah. The secret is to co-ferment it with a small amount (8%) of the white grape viognier, which gives lovely aromatics on the nose and lightens the palate just a tad to soften the leathery and cooked meat notes from the Syrah. It's a wine that's both elegant and muscular (and under $30—bonus.)."

Janet Dorozynski, National Post • February 2012

"Made from BC's hot and dry Black Sage Road, a lush but elegant wine, with a characteristic flavour profile of Northern Rhone Syrah – black and red berries, white pepper, dried herbs and smoked meat. Medium/full-bodied, with soft ripe tannins and balanced acidity."

DJ Kearney, Wine Access Magazine • April-May, 2012

"Aromatic, with 8 percent Viognier, and lifted with violets, dark berries and plums, this wine has glorious BC herbal character and gamey, smoked notes. Best of all are the hints of orange peel and cracked pepper that recall northern Rhone creations. It boasts fresh BC acidity, with dark fruit, ripe but tight tannins and loads of oak. It would benefit from a good aerating. Decant now."
